You are part of a Club that has served our community proudly for 100 years.
This entertaining book tells stories of the people behind the establishment of our Club - from a time when sea bathing was not allowed in daylight hours - to today's life savers.
Photographs illustrate the life of the Club and its members, capturing the contributions over the past century of many dedicated volunteers. The book explores ELSC's reputation of many firsts, such as being the first Club to use the reel and line, early Herald Learn to Swim classes, the sparking of relationships at its 'Bullfight' dances, rescues, champions and the community spirit arising from involvement of our youngest Nippers and their families, highly qualified life savers, and local businesses, through to our oldest Life Members.
